

Hennie Stargardter

Hennie Stargardter uses oil sticks and monoprinting to create her abstract paintings that allow her to show movement and expression within her artwork. She has exhibited widely including at the New Britain Museum of Art; Mattatuck Museum; Connecticut Academy of Fine Arts annual show; Canton, Mystic and Essex galleries; Clinton Art Society; West Hartford Art League, and other venues.

For more than two decades, Stargardter, who holds a master's degree in art education from the University of Hartford, taught art in the Hartford and Granby school systems, and served as a docent at the Wadsworth Atheneum. She is past president of Bloomfield's Wintonbury Art League and is involved with numerous arts organizations.
