Artist's Statement

"The ideas for my pieces are taken from objects and scenes and used as launching points for my paintings. I start a painting intuitively and allow it to evolve. The elements, colors and design take on a life of their own. One addition or change leads to the next. The real beauty of a painting lies in the abstractions, not in the subject. I live in Connecticut and often use the beautiful country side as inspiration for my pieces. My portfolio includes landscape paintings, still life paintings, and abstract works."
