Rozanne Hauser

Antioch New England Graduate School, Antioch University
Master of Arts-counseling psychology

"I started painting as grief therapy and found passion and life through my art work. Today my focus is on capturing the emotion of a landscape or a still life. I use pastel because their immediacy and tactile qualities allow me to capture light and atmosphere."

Of Bloomfield has exhibited at the West Hartford Art League, Windsor Palette and Brush, and Wintonbury Art League. As organizer of Visions, she was responsible for their annual Fall show at the Mark Twain House Museum.

Rozanne is past president of Avon Arts Association. She is also a juried member of Canton Artist Guild. She has exhibited in West Hartford's Art Walk in 2007 and '08, at the Bloomfield Library and the Seabury Retirement Community as well as many galleries around the state of CT. Her works are in collections across the country.

Rozanne began painting after the death of her husband 24 years ago and says painting helped her get through the healing process and brought renewed joy to her life.
