

Lorraine Ficara

Lorraine Ficara studied color and 3D art at Tunxis Community College, and also with well-known painters including Zoltan Zabo, Tony Van Hasselt, and Fred Messersmith, among others.

A resident of Wethersfield, Ficara is a member of the Connecticut Watercolor Society and local art leagues, where she gives demonstrations. The winner of numerous awards, she most recently won third place in the West Hartford Art League's Member Show held in February.

"I love to experiment," states Ficara. "When a subject chooses me, I find passion in capturing its spirit."

The University of Connecticut Health Center's collection of fine arts serves to enhance the environment and promote the sense of a caring community for patients, visitors, staff and students. Art is selected, acquired and exhibited by the UCHC Art Advisory Committee. To view a selection of the Health Center's permanent collection visit: <http://auxiliary.uhc.edu/art>.

"Water Girl" by Lorraine Ficara of Wethersfield, Connecticut. (Lorraine Ficara Photo)

<http://today.uconn.edu/2012/04/photos-and-paintings-on-exhibit-at-lewitt/>